Summer Term Task:

Our topic for this term is World War 2.

Rationing was of key importance during WW2 as supplies became limited. People were creative with ways in which they could use what they had, or turn unused items into useful items. Recipes were created using key ingredients that could be sourced. Rationing forced people to be painfully mathematic in how they spent their limited supply of clothing coupons - and to find shrewd ways to avoid doing so. The government-backed the 'Make Do and Mend' scheme which was introduced to encourage people to revive and repair worn-out clothes.

For your home learning task, I would like you to take the principles of 'Make Do and Mend' and up-cycle something of yours into something else; this could be an old item of clothing into a teddy bear. Or, create a recipe or make something from typical rations that people would have access too.

There will be lots of ideas on line and information on line.

What will you create?
